HISTORY

The College of Europe, established on the initiative of the Hague Congress, dates back to 1949 and is the oldest postgraduate institute of European studies. The founding idea was to establish an institute where university graduates from many different European countries could study and live together in preparation for careers related to European cooperation and integration.

Our long-lasting objective at the College of Europe in Natolin has always been to prepare our students to think beyond disciplinary boundaries, beyond preconceptions, and to encourage them to build bridges and embrace a wider perspective on Europe and the world.

Our mission began three decades ago with the ambition to overcome the unnatural East–West divide after the end of the Cold War. Today, we look more at Europe and its complex neighbourhoods, both facing major external and internal challenges. Many divisions still characterise our continent. With this in mind, we believe our mission is more important today than ever.

Ewa Ośniecka-Tamecka
 Vice-Rector

“Le Collège d'Europe à Natolin c'est plus que le symbole de l'Europe retrouvée, c'est l'espoir qui s'incarne ici, dans ce beau lieu chargé d'histoire. L'espoir que les échanges se multiplient pour plus de compréhension mutuelle et de fraternité.”

Jacques Delors

– Former President of the European Commission

OBJECTIVES AND FEATURES

- Carried out in Natolin (Warsaw), an ideal location to learn about Europe as well as to explore the EU's neighbourhoods.
- Designed for students seeking to develop their competencies and advance their studies beyond preconceptions and disciplinary boundaries, and who want to widen their perspectives on Europe and the world.
- Built on interdisciplinarity since its beginnings, our approach to European Affairs is problem-based, addressing contemporary, historical, and future challenges.
- Crafted upon 30 years of experience, allowing for personal and professional growth, through knowledge, skills and campus experience.
- The Natolin Offer allows students to chart their individual path based on their interests.

Each student at Natolin, according to their interests, can explore, choose, and navigate their own individual path across the rich academic offer, professional development, and extracurricular activities. In the second semester, the students can select one of four fully customisable majors:

- EU Public Affairs and Policies
- The EU and the World
- The EU in the Wider Europe and its Neighbours
- European History and Civilization

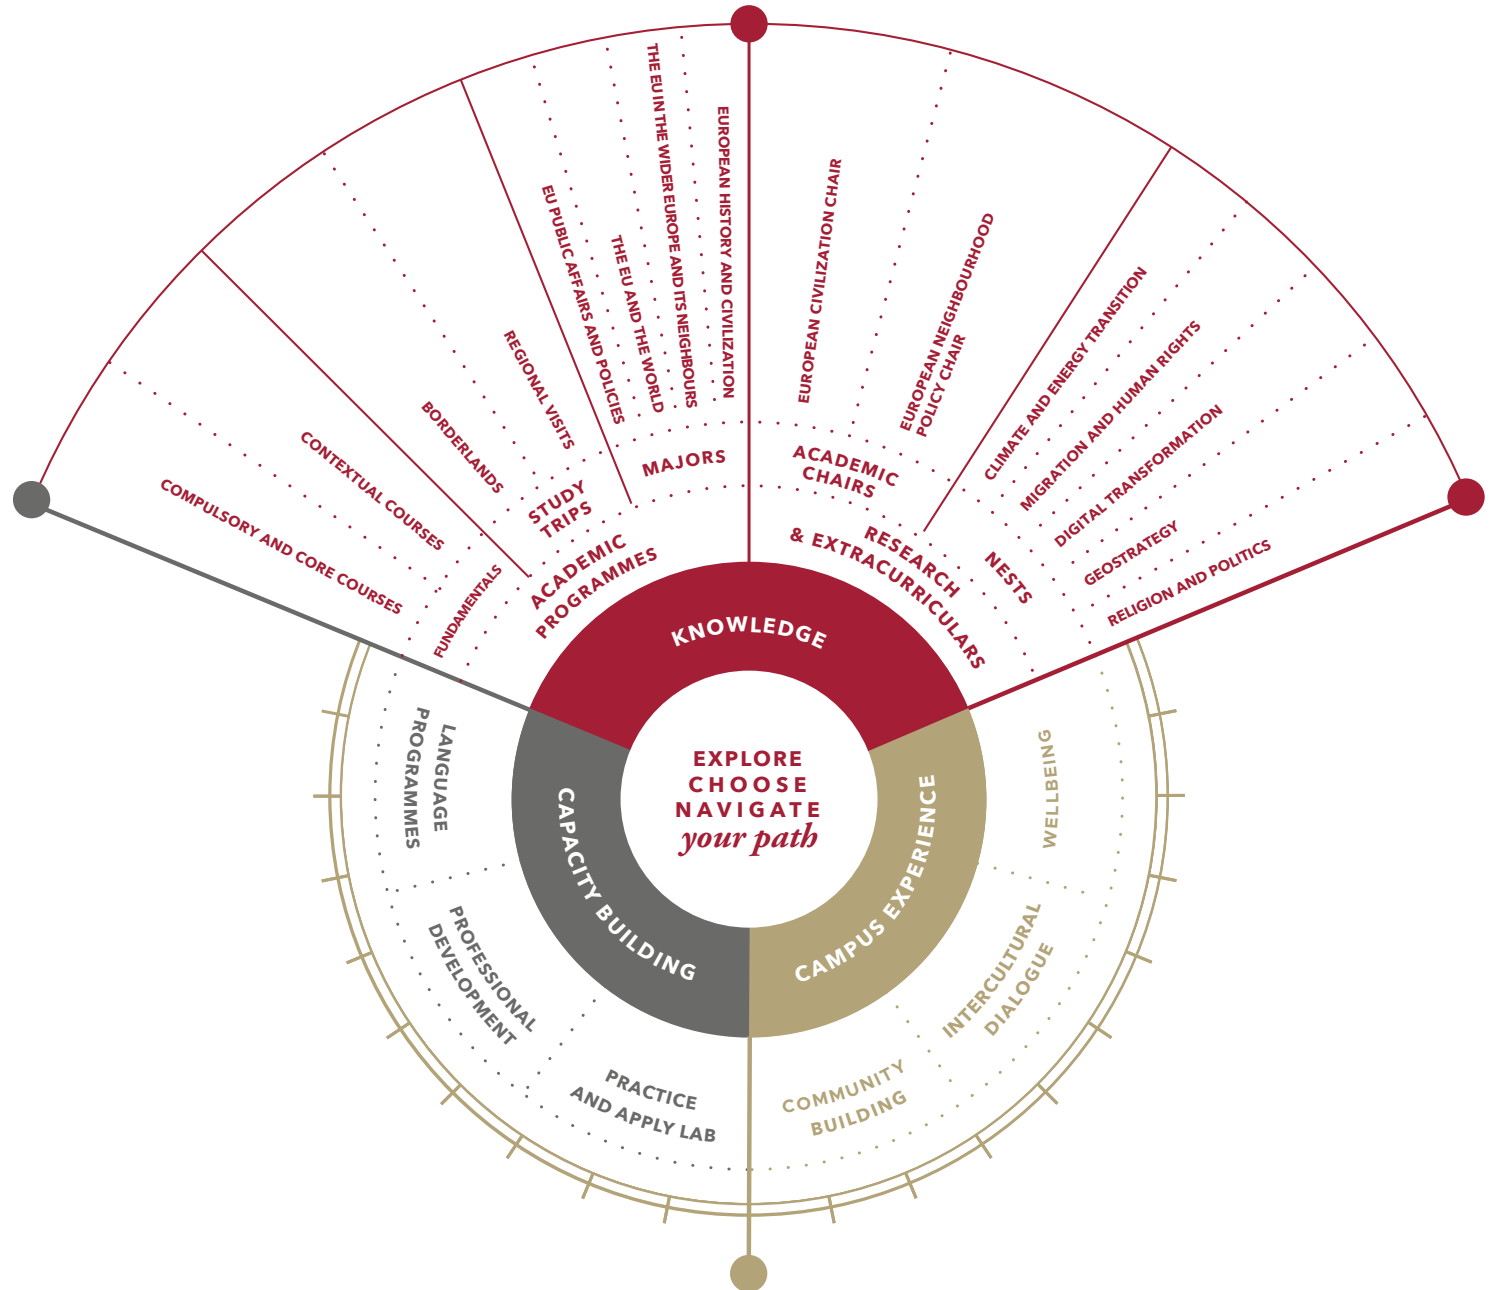

Studying at Natolin is tied to academic, professional and personal development. The academic offer is regularly updated to address contemporary challenges and to offer students cutting-edge insights from the best academics, experts and practitioners backed up by the rich resources available on the campus.

NATOLIN OFFER

The Natolin offer creates a fully personalized, truly intense, intercultural learning experience. The diagram summarizes and structures the offer into three of the most important pillars - KNOWLEDGE, CAPACITY BUILDING, CAMPUS EXPERIENCE. We take great pride in the fact that each academic year, no two students create the same academic path for themselves. Imagine the level of creativity that the Natolin offer provides.

One of our graduates said, "Natolin offers a rich and diverse range of experiences, but it is important to know what you want to discover." Therefore, students are always encouraged to understand the offer, then explore, choose, and navigate their path. More information can be found in our video below.

BECAUSE EUROPE IS AN ADVENTURE TO BE LIVED

Study Trips are a unique element of the academic offer of the College of Europe in Natolin. They provide invaluable field experience of studied themes and acquaint students with the cultural and historical heritage of visited countries, while allowing them also to benefit from encounters with academics and practitioners, journalists, NGO representatives, civil society members and local policymakers directly involved in issues on the ground.

Although the Study Trips are largely academic in character – devoting much of the schedule to lectures, debates, and conferences – they also incorporate cultural exposure and community bonding elements of equal value. Students interact with local communities, visit local landmarks, and experience local customs over the trips – which take place early in the first semester and midway through the second semester of studies.

2 STUDY TRIPS

Study trips vary in destination according to academic priorities. The map on the left details past destinations of the study trips organised by the College of Europe in Natolin.
