DE L'ART POÉTIQUE À L'ÉPÎTRE AUX PISONS D'HORACE

Pour une redéfinition du statut de l'œuvre
Robin Glinatsis
Presses universitaires du Septentrion, 2018

À en juger par sa réception dès l'Antiquité, la nature de l'œuvre d'Horace qu'on a nommée Art poétique ne semble pas devoir être mise en question. On tient là le pendant latin de la Poétique d'Aristote, c'est-à-dire un bréviaire technique transposant dans la Rome augustéenne les vues aristotéliques...

22 FEBRUARY 2018 1968-2018: FIFTY YEARS OF CONTESTATION

In 1968, the largest student and workers' uprising that France had ever seen took aim at all forms of domination. This coincided with a time of strong international politicization, reflecting the importance of the ideologies and engagements in favour of civil rights, decolonization and feminism. ...

Latest excerpts

It now seems obvious, for example, that simple generalizations about the collective nature of art in non-literate cultures cannot hold good in face of the evidence about the creative activity of the individual poet or storyteller, and that the process of artistic composition even in

Editors: Wale Adebunmi University of Oxford, UK, Deborah James London School of Economics and Political Science, UK and Benjamin Soares University of Florida, Gainesville, USA

Editorial board

Reviews Editor: Laura Mann London School of Economics and Political Science, UK

Africa is the premier journal devoted to the study of African societies and culture. Editorial policy encourages an interdisciplinary approach, involving humanities, social sciences, and environmental sciences. Africa aims to give increased attention to African production of knowledge, highlighting the work of local African thinkers and writers, emerging social and cultural trends 'on the ground', and links between local and national levels of society. At the same time, it maintains its commitment to the theoretically informed analysis of the realities of Africa's own cultural categories. Each issue contains six or seven major articles, arranged thematically, extensive review essays and substantial book reviews. Special issues are published annually.

Melanie S. Morrison's Spring Tour for Murder on Shades Mountain

In Murder on Shades Mountain: The Legal Lynching of Willie Peterson and the Struggle for Justice in Jim Crow Birmingham, social justice educator and activist Melanie S. Morrison tells the tragic story of the murder and attempted murder of three young women in 1930s Birmingham, Alabama, and the aftermath, which saw a reign of terror unleashed on the town's black community, the wrongful conviction and death sentencing of Willie Peterson, and a

Climate Change and the UN Security Council

Edited by Shirley V. Scott and Charlotte Ku

In this forward-looking book, the authors consider how the United Nations Security Council could assist in addressing the global security challenges brought about by climate change. Contributing authors contemplate how the UNSC could prepare for this role; progressing the debate from whether and why the council should act on climate insecurity, to how? Scholars, activists, and policy makers will find this book a fertile source of innovative thinking and an invaluable basis on which to develop policy.

Negotiating Climate Change

A Forensic Analysis

Aynsley Kellow

This book examines how an error in global meta-policy set climate change negotiations on an unproductive course. The decision to base negotiations on the Montreal Protocol and overlook the importance of interests, it argues, institutionalised an approach doomed to fail. By analysing interests, science and norms in the process, and the neglect of 'interactive multilateralism', learning Agreement was finally concluded, only to encounter a Trump

Abstract

The sodium–potassium pump (Na^+/K^+ pump) is crucial for cell physiology. Despite great advances in the understanding of this ionic pumping system, its mechanism is not completely understood. We propose the use of a statistical model checker to investigate palytoxin (PTX)-induced Na^+/K^+ pump channels. We modelled a system of reactions representing transitions between the conformational substates of the channel with parameters, concentrations of the substates and reaction rates extracted from simulations reported in the literature, based on electrophysiological recordings in a whole-cell configuration. The model was implemented using the UPPAAL-SMC platform. Comparing simulations and probabilistic queries from stochastic system semantics with experimental data, it was possible to propose additional reactions to reproduce the single-channel dynamic. The probabilistic analyses and simulations suggest that the PTX-induced Na^+/K^+ pump channel functions as a diprotomeric complex in which protein–protein interactions increase the affinity of the Na^+/K^+ pump for PTX.
